

Robert Gardner

Making Forest of Bliss

Intention, Circumstance, and Chance in Nonfiction Film
Robert Gardner and Ákos Östör

Making Forest of Bliss, the first in Harvard Film Archive's series "Voices and Visions in Film," presents a dialogue between Gardner and his colleague anthropologist Ákos Östör, illustrated with more than 150 images captured from the film.

153 color illustrations, 1 DVD • 136 pages
available in paperback • $49.95

Michael Rockefeller

New Guinea Photographs, 1961
Kevin Bubrick

Foreword by Robert Gardner
Photographs by Michael Rockefeller

From April to August 1961, recent Harvard graduate Michael Clark Rockefeller was sound recordist and still photographer on a remarkable multidisciplinary expedition to the Dani people of highland New Guinea. In five short months he produced a wonderful body of work, including over 4,000 black-and-white negatives. In a Foreword, Robert Gardner provides a personal recollection of Michael Rockefeller's experience in the New Guinea highlands.

80 duotone photographs • 96 pages
available in paperback • $29.95

Making Dead Birds

Chronicle of a Film
Robert Gardner

Foreword by Phillip Lopate

"This revealing text is a serious addition to written and visual publications about Dani encounters, and it leaves the reader wishing for more."

—Steven Feld, editor-translator of Jean Rouch: Cine-Ethnography

"Robert Gardner returns cinema to its most primal and far-reaching task and mission: discovering the world."

—Tom Gunning, author of The Films of Fritz Lang: Allegories of Vision and Modernity

65 photographs • 160 pages
new in paperback • $35.00

The Impulse to Preserve

Reflections of a Filmmaker
Robert Gardner

Foreword by Charles Simic

"This collection of essays, meditations, edited journal entries, and photographs describes the career of a notable anthropologist and filmmaker. Taken as a whole, it weaves a story that has much more to do with art than with any of the sociological disciplines. A fascinating, indeed spellbinding journey of the mind and heart."

—Tracy Kidder, author of Mountains Beyond Mountains

500 photographs • 384 pages
available in cloth • $55.00

Robert Gardner is an Associate of the Harvard Department of Visual and Environmental Studies, Founding Director of the Harvard Film Study Center, and Former Director of the Harvard University Carpenter Center.

HARVARD UNIVERSITY PRESS

FOUR WAYS TO ORDER THIS BOOK. PLEASE VISIT YOUR LOCAL BOOKSELLER FIRST

TEL: 800.405.1619

FAX: 800.406.9145

WEB: www.hup.harvard.edu

MAIL: Harvard University Press

c/o Trilateral LLC Customer Service

100 Maple Ridge Rd, Cumberland, RI 02864